

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION AND POLICY

About the Authors

Professor Peter K.W. Fong, PhD (New York University), is a Professor at HK Chu Hai College of Higher Education; Research Associate of Centre of Research on Education in China, Faculty of Education, HKU; President of Hong Kong Public Administration Association and Editor-in-Chief of Public Administration and Policy — An Asia-Pacific Journal; Director of Go Fun Card Ltd. He also holds advisory and visiting Professorships in several Mainland China universities, namely Tsinghua, Renmin, Tongji, and Tianjin Universities. He is a Registered Professional Planner in HK. He was formerly a Fellow of Judge Business School, University of Cambridge; Director of EMBA & Executive Programme, HKU Business School; Executive Vice President of City University of Macau (formerly AIOU); Studies Director of the Civil Service Training & Development Institute of the HKSAR Government; Visiting Scholar at MIT; and Consultant of the World Bank and Delta Asia Bank & Financial Group.

Mr. Rimsky Yuen, SC, was appointed Secretary for Justice on July 1, 2012. He was a barrister in private practice before joining the Government, specializing in commercial disputes. He also served as an arbitrator in international arbitrations and a mediator in commercial disputes. Mr. Yuen was appointed Senior Counsel in 2003 and a Recorder of the Court of First Instance of the High Court in 2006. He had also been involved in various public duties, including Member of the Judicial Officers Recommendation Commission (which he continues to serve in his capacity as Secretary for Justice), Non-Official Member of the Independent Commission against Corruption Advisory Committee on Corruption, Chairman of the Transport Advisory Committee, Non-executive Director of Mandatory Provident Fund Schemes Authority and Council Member of the Hong Kong Institute of Education.

Professor Jon S.T. Quah is an Anti-Corruption Consultant based in Singapore. He was a Professor of Political Science at the National University of Singapore (NUS) and Co-editor of the Asian Journal of Political Science until his retirement in 2007. He was a Vice-Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at NUS, Head of the Department of Political Science, and Coordinator of the European Studies Programme. He has published extensively on anti-corruption strategies in Asian countries and his recent books include: Hunting the Corrupt 'Tigers' and 'Flies' in China: An Evaluation of Xi Jinping's Anti-Corruption Campaign (November 2012 to March 2015) (2015); Editor of Different Paths to Curbing Corruption: Lessons from Denmark, Finland, Hong Kong, New Zealand and Singapore (2013); Curbing Corruption in Asian Countries: An Impossible Dream? (2011, 2013); Public Administration Singapore-Style (2010); Taiwan's Anti-Corruption Strategy: Suggestions for Reform (2010); Combating Corruption

Singapore-Style: Lessons for Other Asian Countries (2007); and Curbing Corruption in Asia: A Comparative Study of Six Countries (2003).

Mr. James Low is a PhD candidate at the School of Politics and International Relations, the Australian National University. Prior to pursuing his doctoral studies, he served at the Singapore Civil Service College, where he researched on public sector governance particularly whole-of-government and inter-agency coordination. He also trained public service officers both locally and overseas. Mr. Low was a staff lecturer at the Nanyang Polytechnic in Singapore after he completed his M.A. at the National University of Singapore.

Mr. Ying-ho Kwong is a research postgraduate of the Department of Government and Public Administration at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. He holds his undergraduate degree of social science in policy studies and administration at the City University of Hong Kong. He is currently working in the SynergyNet, one of the leading think tanks in Hong Kong, as researcher and facilitates in several research projects on governance performance, public sentiments and public finances. He has developed his research interests in the areas of Internet alternative media, media performance, democratization, state capacity, labour policy, as well as social movement.

Dr. Andrew T.W. Hung, PhD (Hong Kong Baptist University) is a lecturer of Division of Communication & Social Sciences, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University - Hong Kong Community College. His research interests include philosophy of Charles Taylor, Western and Chinese political philosophy, and Christian moral political theory. His recent essays "Huntington, Samuel P. (1927 - 2008)" and "Sandel, Michael (1953 -)" appeared in International Encyclopedia of Social and Behavioral Sciences, 2nd edition; and "Tu Wei-Ming and Charles Taylor on Embodied Moral Reasoning" in Philosophy, Culture, and Traditions (forthcoming, 2015).

Dr. Vincent W.L. Wong, EdD (Outstanding), MA (Dist), MEd (Ed Admin & Curriculum), BA in CUHK, is a Senior Lecturer in School of Continuing Education in Hong Kong Baptist University; Associate Editor of Public Administration and Policy — An Asia-Pacific Journal; member of Executive Committee, Hong Kong Public Administration Association; Winner of Outstanding Doctorate Scholarship (CUHK) and Peer Reviewer of Hong Kong Teacher Center Journal. Dr. Wong is a veteran in multi-disciplines with professional experiences in government, strategic, business, management and education fields: Former Officer ranked at Senior Civil Servant in HK Government for educational policy implementation; Member of Public Forum, Home Affairs Bureau; Public Policy Sub-committee of HK Professional and Senior Executives Association; Hong Kong Institute of Directors; HK General Chamber of Commerce; International Institute of Management; Hong Kong Academy of School Managers, etc. His research interests involve public governance, government administration, and educational leadership.