

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION AND POLICY

About the Authors

Professor Chung-nan Chang, PhD, President of Hong Kong Chu Hai College of Higher Education, got his Bachelor degree in Applied Mathematics from Chung Hsing National University, Taiwan, ROC. He went to Stanford University for graduate study in Aero & Astronautics and Physics. He completed his PhD programme in 1974. He had served Stanford University and Santa Clara University in teaching and research positions. He left for industry and became founding member of two companies in Silicon Valley. He has nine patented inventions. He was consultant for organizations such as ITRI, EPRI, and Lawrence Laboratories, etc. He returns to the academic rank and has been in the current position since 2002. He is poised to build a new campus for the College and to reclaim the University status in 2014.

Mr. Charles Wong, son of Dr. Sun Sui-fong, granddaughter of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, graduated from Occidental College in 1990 with an A.B. (Advanced Bachelor of Arts) in Diplomacy and World Affairs (International Relations), and a Master of Pacific International Affairs from University of California, San Diego in 1994, with an emphasis on international management and China as country focus. He is Vice President of the Sun Yat-sen Foundation for Peace & Education and a Trustee of the Lian Yi Chung Hui, the oldest Chinese association in Hawaii (Est. 1851), which runs the Manoa Chinese Cemetery.

Professor Jon S.T. Quah is an Anti-Corruption Consultant based in Singapore. He was a Professor of Political Science at the National University of Singapore (NUS) and Co-editor of the Asian Journal of Political Science until his retirement in June 2007. He was a Vice-Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at NUS, Head of the Department of Political Science, and Coordinator of the European Studies Programme. He has published extensively on anti-corruption strategies in Asian countries and his recent publications include: Curbing Corruption in Asian Countries: An Impossible Dream? (2011, 2013); Public Administration Singapore-Style (2010); Taiwan's Anti-Corruption Strategy: Suggestions for Reform (2010); Combating Corruption Singapore-Style: Lessons for Other Asian Countries (2007); and Curbing Corruption in Asia: A Comparative Study of Six Countries (2003).

Dr. Karen M.Y. Lee read law and politics in the University of Auckland and holds a PhD in law with the University of Hong Kong. She began her academic career with the Department of Law and Business at Shue Yan University in 2008 and is now an Assistant Professor. Her research covers a broad area of human rights, rule of law, and law and culture, with a deepening interest in rule of law and democratization in Greater China. She has contributed articles to BBC, Asia Times, and now writes for South China Morning Post on China's legal developments. Information about her academic works can be found on <<http://hkysu.academia.edu/MYKarenLee>>.

Prof. Carlos W.H. Lo is a Professor in the Department of Management and Marketing at The Hong Kong Polytechnic University. His main research interests are in the areas of law and government, environmental governance, cultural heritage management, corporate environmental management, and corporate social responsibility, within the context of China and Hong Kong. Currently he is researching environmental regulatory control and corporate environmental management in the Pearl River Delta Region. His latest works appear in the Journal of Public Administration and Research Theory, Regulation & Governance, The China Quarterly, Environment & Planning A, and Journal of Environmental Management.

Ms Pansy H.Y. Li is a Teaching Fellow in the Department of Management and Marketing at The Hong Kong Polytechnic University. Her main research interests are corporate social responsibility, environmental management, entrepreneurship and social networking. Her latest piece was published in the Journal of Environmental Management.

Ms Nicole N. Liu is currently a PhD candidate in the Department of Management and Marketing at The Hong Kong Polytechnic University. She received her Bachelor degree in Engineering in Hunan University and a Master degree in Economics in the Renmin University of China. Her research focuses on environmental policy and corporate environmental management. She is now completing her thesis on the corporate compliance styles of environmental regulations in China.

Dr. Gordon McConnachie, B.Sc., PhD, is the founding Chairman of the Scottish Intellectual Assets Centre (2003-2007) and Chief Technology Officer of Asia Pacific Intellectual Capital Centre. He is a chemical engineer and he spent most of his career with Dow Chemical. At Dow Chemical Europe (1989-1999), he invented the IP and Intellectual Assets Management System with Phil Barnett and Gordon Petrash. The system was later modified and applied across the global company, where he transferred technologies from companies and universities into Dow Europe which brought him into contact with the EU Innovation Relay Centres (now Enterprise Europe Network). From 1999 to 2002 Gordon directed the European Intellectual Asset Management Services of PricewaterhouseCoopers and was placed on the Global IAM 250 list of leading IA Strategists, one of only a handful of experts on the list from China and the ASEAN Nations.

Mr. Alan K.L. Lung was born and educated in Hong Kong. He was also educated at the University of Wisconsin in the USA and Wilfrid Laurier University in Canada. He chairs the Hong Kong Democratic Foundation (www.hkdf.org), a political and public policy think tank founded in 1989. Alan is skilled in converting his knowledge of governments and public policies into practical steps to move forward "Knowledge Economy" initiatives. He is a member of the Innovation and Technology Advisory Committee of the Hong Kong Trade Development Council (HKTDC) and he has been promoting innovation and technology practices in Hong Kong, Guangzhou and Beijing through the Asia Pacific Intellectual Capital Centre (www.apicc.asia) (where he is Director and General Manager), since 2006.